International Humanitarian Law Workshop
January 23-24, 2015

The American Red Cross and Vanderbilt Law School International Studies Program present Law and War: a one day workshop and introductory lecture on international humanitarian law open to law students, graduate students, and professionals who are interested in learning more about or pursuing a career in international law. Participants will be guided through an intensive examination of international humanitarian law with a focus on its application to combatants and civilians.

Topics covered include: When does IHL apply? Means and Methods of Warfare, the Relationship between IHL and Human Rights Law, and Protections for Vulnerable Persons in Armed Conflict.

- January 23rd at 5:30pm: Lecture on Contemporary Challenges in IHL: Israel and the Occupied Palestinian Territories presented by Professor Mike Newton (Reception to follow). Bennett Miller Room, Law School

Applications are available at www.redcross.org/lawschoolworkshop. Completed applications must be received by January 9, 2015 and should be sent to Kimberly.Huey@redcross.org
